

‘Karumegangal Kalaiginrana’: Emotional drama

Direction : Thangar Bachan

Cast : Bharathiraja , Gautham Menon, Aditi Balan, Yogi Babu

The story revolves around a father (Bharathiraja) and son (Gautham Vasudev Menon), both lawyers, have different perspectives on justice, morals and money, and face ups and downs in their relationship. Meanwhile a father (Yogi Babu), who is separated from his daughter, tries to reconnect with her.

Drawing inspiration from his own 2006 short story, Karumegangal Kalaiginrana presents another poignant emotional drama, tracing the trajectories of two individuals from distinct age brackets and social backgrounds.

Exploring the bonds of family and the pursuit of lost love, the film tries hard to captivate the audience from the very beginning. Bharathiraja is introduced to us as Ramanadhan, an upright retired judge. As the story unfolds, we are introduced to his complex family dynamics, including his son Komugen, a materialistic criminal lawyer, played by Gautham Menon. The narrative takes an emotional turn when Ramanadhan unearths an old letter, forcing him to embark on a quest to find his lost love.

During his journey, Ramanadhan encounters an innocent parotta master, Veeramani (Yogi Babu), who shares a similar quest for his adopted daughter, whom he believes to be his world. The following events create a series of challenges for both Veeramani and Ramanadhan. The plot delves into Ramanadhan's struggles to mend broken relationships with his past love and his daughter, Kanmani (Aditi Balan), reclaiming what he has lost. As mistakes from the past threaten to derail his efforts, can he lead a happy life and also help Veeramani reunite with his little daughter?

Thangar Bachan's intention to tell a story about two men and how their past actions influence their present is quite interesting. Both Yogi Babu and Bharathiraja's stories have the elements to evoke emotions within. But then, the screenplay, the insertion of unwanted events, and the lack of inventiveness in the writing are where things go wrong. Yogi Babu's character sketch is brilliant. In one of the scenes, when his daughter, played by Saraa, doesn't let him return home, we all shed tears. Also, when Bharathiraja begs Kanmani (Aditi Balan) for forgiveness, our hearts skip a beat.

The focus lies only on Bharathiraja and his family members in the first half. We also get to see his elder son and daughter, who are abroad, celebrating their dad's 70th birthday through a YouTube Live. Later, we are introduced to Aditi Balan, her backstory, and how an encounter case has put her life in misery. While all these events are somehow linked in the second half, we still feel that the screenplay is a bit chaotic, and it gets difficult for us to fully embrace the world that the director has built.

Austria's Hallstatt village protests against mass tourism

Austria, Sept 01: Over the last weekend, Hallstatt village citizens in Austria have protested against mass tourism in this area by blocking the main road to the town. In spite of the fact that it has a population of just 800, it sees over 10,000 visitors within a day during the peak summer season, Schengen VisaInfo.com reports. According to a Sky News report, on Sunday, locals blocked the main access to the tunnel to the village as a sign of protest against tourism. Austrian newspaper Salzburger Nachrichten said that the tunnel was closed for nearly 15 minutes. Holding placards with slogans such as "Think of our children" and "Radical frontiers for mass tourism," about 100 people gathered for the protest. Residents of Hallstatt called for limits on the number of daily tourists and also for a ban on tour buses after 17:00 local time. This is not the first time that residents have called for action when it comes to mass tourism in this zone. In May this year, the residents of Hallstatt built a wooden wall in order to block the views of the Alps and show their anger in this way.

Fun Facts!!

In a bizarre incident, a massive fight broke out during a Pakistani wedding function. The incident took place on August 24, 2023. A video which is currently going viral on X, formerly Twitter, shows men throwing chairs at each other. The six-minute-long video starts with wedding attendees seated at tables, enjoying their dinner. A white cloth partition separates the men's and women's seating arrangement. Further in the video, a man approaches a table and flips a guest's hat. Moments later, the scene turns violent and they start hitting each other and more people get involved in the fight. Soon, they start hitting each other with chairs. Women also try in vain to break up the fight. The white partition is torn apart.

Since being posted, the video has gathered over 333,000 views on X. Commenting on the video, a person wrote, "I get pissed off too if I don't get adequate meat pieces LOL."

Another user commented, "I think they were just not happy with women folks sitting on the other side. Notice how they all moved to the other side."
